Lectureship Plans Completed for October 7-10

Plans for the 57th Annual Harding University Bible Lectureship are complete. The Lectureship, scheduled for Oct. 7-10, will be based on the theme "We Give Thee But Thine Own."

Daily lectures will focus on faithfulness, giving of oneself and of one's time and Christian marriage and parenthood. Also, 13 classes will be taught each day by preachers and church leaders from six states and England. Class topics will include evangelism, evolution, church budgeting and various aspects of Christian living.

Theme lectures during the week will be "We Give Thee But Thine Own" — Harold Hazelip, Memphis, Tenn.; "Heaven's Interest in Our Salvation"

Harold Hazelip

Phillip Morrison

Jerry Jones

Frank Pack

— Phillip Morrison, Memphis; "Saved to Serve" — Jerry Jones, Searcy and "They First Gave Themselves" —

Frank Pack, Los Angeles, Calif.

In addition, chapel talks will be given by John Dale of Nashville, Tenn., David Wallace of Cleburne, Texas and Ron White of Oklahoma City, Okla.

Several musical programs will be presented during the Lectureship, including performances by the Harding Academy Chorus and two University groups: A Cappella and Chorale. There will also be an evening hymn sing on the campus lawn Oct. 8.

A schedule of special meetings, luncheons and reunions will be available during the Lectureship.

There will be a display area in the American Heritage Center to exhibit current brotherhood projects and publications.

The Lectureship is coordinated by Dr. Neale T. Pryor, professor of Bible.

Homecoming Scheduled November 6-8

A full schedule of events has been planned for the 1980 Harding University Homecoming Nov. 6-8.

The weekend will feature a musical production of William Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream," edited for the modern audience. Both music and costumes will be of an eclectic fashion, with each song and each character's dress styled to complement the action. The play will be presented at 8:15 p.m. on Thursday, Friday and Saturday in the Benson Auditorium.

The Homecoming events will begin with a Thursday evening pep rally which will provide the setting for the crowning of the Homecoming queen.

On Friday afternoon, students will hold a chili supper on the front lawn. Alumni are invited to dine together at the Black and Gold Banquet, which is scheduled for 5:30 p.m. in the Charles White Cafeteria. Master of Ceremonies will be Harold Bowie, superintendent of Harding Academy in Memphis, Tenn. Jim McInteer of the West End Church of Christ in Nashville, Tenn. will be the guest speaker during the banquet.

Homecoming day will begin with a 7:30-9 a.m. alumni continental breakfast in the Hammon Student Center. The day's events will include an alumni chapel, a Homecoming parade and various club and class reunions. Plans are being finalized for a dinner and reception honoring the class of 1955. The 25-year reunion will be hosted by the officers of the alumni association, according to David Crouch, director of alumni relations.

The day will be highlighted by the competition between the Bisons and Southern Arkansas University at 2 p.m. Pre-game and half-time shows will be presented by the Bison band, "The Thundering Herd."

Concluding the weekend will be the traditional "Blackout" variety show, presented at 6:30 and 8:30 p.m. in the Administration Building Auditorium.

Wal-Mart President to be Featured As American Studies Speaker

Jack Shewmaker, President and Chief Operating Officer of Wal-Mart Stores, Inc., will be the featured American Studies speaker on Oct. 13.

Shewmaker, a native of Buffalo, Mo., is one of the youngest presidents of the Fortune 500 companies in the United States. The Wal-Mart chain consists of more than 300 retail stores in eleven different states. Total sales for the company will exceed 1.5 billion dollars this year.

The son of a retired businessman and retail merchant, Shewmaker attended Georgia Tech in Atlanta, Ga. for two years and has participated in numerous business management seminars at colleges and universities throughout the country.

Prior to joining Wal-Mart, he held the positions of store manager, district manager and corporate training director for Coast to Coast Stores in Minneapolis, Minn. and Kroger Family Center, Division of Kroger Stores in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Shewmaker joined Wal-Mart as district manager in charge of new store openings in 1970. He was promoted to district manager and received the special assignment of drafting the company's original Corporate Policies and Procedure Manuals.

Jack Shewmaker

In 1973 he was named Vice President of Store Operations, subsequently becoming Executive Vice President of Merchandise, Operations and Personnel and joining the Board of Directors. In August 1978 he assumed the position of President and Chief Operating Officer.

Shewmaker's presentation at Harding will concern the role of the businessman in today's society and the causes of decline in productivity in America.

Fall Enrollment Nears 3100 Mark

Harding's student body will be the largest ever this year. Nearly 3100 students have registered for fall classes, and the registration deadline has not yet passed.

Last year, as if in keeping with the new University status, Harding's enrollment edged above 3000 for the first time, setting a record number of 3001 students.

This year's enrollment figure includes those studying in Searcy and those who are participating in the International Studies Program in Florence, Italy.

"Classes are operating at maximum capacity," stated Dr. Joseph Pryor, vice president for academic affairs. "At 8:00, 9:45 and 10:45 a.m. at 2 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, every classroom is in use."

Director of Housing Ike Hamilton said, "We're about the most crowded we've ever been. We're having fewer cancellations that we've had in years past," he explained.

Students to Spend Fall Term in Florence, Italy

Nineteen students, composing the first International Studies group to attend Harding in Florence, departed for the branch in Italy Sept. 1.

The group includes one freshman student: Karen Kearbey, a business major from Poplar Bluff, Mo. Sophomore participants are Jo Lynne Varner, a nursing major from Fulton, Ark.; Mike Rushing, a business major from Burnsville, Miss. and Natalie Smith of Lafayette, Calif. A transfer student from the University of California — Davis, Smith is engaged in general studies.

Eight of the Florence students are juniors: Susan Broughton of Dallas, Texas, pre-law; Debbie Doss of Tempe, Ariz., general studies; Carla Kearbey of Searcy, general business; Gale Messick of Mountain Home, Ark., history; Pam Schildknecht of Ozark, Mo., psychology; Becky Swartwood of Woodbridge, Va., accounting and Craig Zeringue of Ama, La., Bible.

Seniors in the group include Fonda Thannisch of San Antonio, Texas, business; Meta Pigg of Peoria, Ill., public relations; Ruth Landry of Dallas, Biblical languages; LaDonna England of DeSoto, Texas, elementary education; Judy Jalyn Coe of Pearland, Texas, business education and Jay Pettey, a Bible major from Searcy, who is accompanied by his wife Shirley.

Two post-graduate students are also participating in the tour: Pat Harville of Bentonville, Ark., who received her master of education degree from Harding in August, and Mary Kay (Mrs. Larry) James of Searcy.

The students are accompanied by two Harding professors: Dr. Don Shackelford of the Bible department, who spent seven years in Italy as a missionary, and Dr. Gary Elliott, chairman of the English department. The teachers' families, including Rebecca, Kenneth and Mrs. Joyce Shackelford and Douglas, Heather and Mrs. Cheryl Elliott, will also be in Florence.

Courses of study will relate to the Italian environment. Elliott will teach American novels with European art, music, history, philosophy, religion and literature. Shackelford will supervise studies in "Biblical World and Archaeology" and the life and writings of Paul. The Italian language will be taught by Florence native Gianfranco Sciotti, who was instrumental in establishing the International Studies Program and will serve as the school's Italian administrator.

The Florence curriculum will allow much sightseeing, including guided tours for the entire group in Athens, ancient Corinth, Mycenae and Epidaurus. Students will also have the opportunity to visit Delphi as the group traces the route of Paul's second missionary journey.

Wilson Attends UA Computer Workshop

Dr. Edmond Wilson, professor of physical science, was one of 26 college teachers from Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Missouri, Tennessee, Texas and Mississippi who attended the Microcomputer Interface Workshop sponsored recently by the Department of Chemistry and the Division of Continuing Education at the University of Arkansas — Fayetteville.

The workshop was designed for faculty associated with the laboratory sciences and who will be users of microcomputers. The purpose of the program was to acquaint the teachers with the hardware of the microcomputer and give them an opportunity to use the system in actual laboratory situations.

He has worked in the Camden public school system for nine years, serving as principal of Fairview High School for three years before joining the Harding staff.

Eight other new faculty members were announced last month: Bob Reeley, management; David Tucker, economics; Wade Bedwell, special education; Kelly Bracken, nursing; Carl Mitchell, Bible; Dale McAnulty, missions; David Kratzer, mathematics and Robin Miller, speech.

Crockett Speaks at Summer Workshops

Sharen Crockett, associate professor of home economics, attended a Leadership Training Workshop sponsored by the Arkansas Association on Children Under Six in Little Rock July 19. As chairman of the Association's Parenting Committee, she presided during the committee meeting. The Parenting Committee, primarily concerned with early childhood education, is planning to compile and publish information concerning ways in which teachers can communicate with parents.

Earlier in the summer, Crockett served as a voting delegate to the National Meeting of the American Home Economics Association. Also, she spoke during a Visiting Nurses' Association Workshop for young teens, which was held in Searcy in May. Her topic was "Developmental Characteristics of the Young Child."

Crockett will be listed in upcoming issues of Who's Who in the South and Southeast and Who's Who in American Women.

ON THE COVER: Will Sampson, renowned for his part in "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," answers questions about the American Indian. Sampson's appearance was made possible by the Arkansas Endowment for the Humanities and the Harding American Studies Program.

Organ, Ulrey to Present Papers

Dr. Dennis Organ, associate professor of English and journalism, and Mrs. Betty Ulrey, assistant professor of English, will present literary studies to the 1980 Region IV Conference of Christianity and Literature (CCL) Oct. 3-4.

The two-day conference will be hosted by Hardin-Simmons University and Abilene Christian University.

The CCL is an international society of professionals dedicated to understanding the relationship of Christianity to the creation, study and teaching of literature. The society is allied with the Modern Language Association (MLA).

Formed in 1956, the CCL has approximately 1000 members. For ten years the organization has sponsored seminars on religion and literature at the annual MLA meeting and at many regional conferences.

The CCL began reviewing literary studies last winter, according to Organ. He and Mrs. Ulrey submitted their papers and both were selected for presentation at the conference.

Organ's presentation, "Conrad's Use of the Bible in 'The Nigger of the Narcissus,'" explains that Conrad, an avowed anti-Christian, used the Bible as a storehouse of western knowledge. The short story, a study of the psychological effects of a voyage on a ship's crew, contains several Biblical allusions.

Mrs. Ulrey's paper, entitled "Renunciation and Revival in Gerard Manley Hopkins' Life and His Poem 'The Wreck of the Deutschland,'" illustrates how Hopkins, a Roman Catholic priest, portrayed the revival of his own faith in his poetry.

Nursing Student to Serve NSNA

Mary Copeland, a senior nursing major from East Point, Ga., has been selected to represent the National Student Nurses' Association (NSNA) in Washington D.C. Her duties will include monitoring legislation affecting nurses and testifying before various Congressional Committees.

A transfer student from Freed-Hardeman College, Copeland served last year as president of her nursing class and as president of the Arkansas State Nursing Students Association.

Copeland is also a member of the Advisory Board of the Arkansas Department of Health and of the NSNA Board of Directors.

While at Freed-Hardeman, Copeland participated in A Cappella and drama. At Harding she became a resident assistant and a member of Campus Singers.

Copeland has been nominated to the National Dean's List for high academic achievement and will be featured in a future issue of The American Journal of Nursing.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold W. Copeland of East Point.

Senior Pam Parker of Kennett, Mo. is among nearly 3100 students at Harding from almost every state and from countries as far away as Japan, Zambia and Iran.

Teachers Study Active Learning

More than 80 area teachers attended the "Teaching for Active Learning" workshop hosted at Harding on Sept. 5-6.

The workshop, co-sponsored by Harding School of Nursing and the University of Arkansas for Medical Sciences, featured guest speaker Em Bevis. A registered nurse and member of the Family Academy of American Nursing, Bevis serves as head of the nursing department at Georgia Southern College in Statesboro, Ga. She holds the master of arts degree and is considered an expert in nursing education. She has conducted many workshops and has co-authored six books, in addition to her extensive publication of educational materials.

Assisting Bevis was Joyce Murray, who holds the master of science in nursing degree. Murray is an assistant professor for the Department of Mental Health and Psychiatric Nursing in conjunction with the Savannah Satellite Graduate Program at the Medical College of Georgia.

Workshop presentations included information on teaching concepts and strategies, learning theories, individualized instruction, learning modules, process teaching and learning games and activities.

"The workshop was designed to help teachers create active learning situations such as we use in our nursing classes," stated Charlotte Stephenson, chairman of the School of Nursing's Community Services Committee and coordinator of the workshop. "Learning by doing is much more effective than listening to lectures."

Participants in the workshop will receive nine contact hours of continuing education credit.

Plummer Active in Herpetology League

Dr. Mike Plummer, assistant professor of biology, spoke at a symposium honoring Dr. Henry S. Fitch in Milwaukee, Wis. on Aug. 9.

Fitch, professor emeritus of the University of Kansas, was a pioneer in reptilian population ecology. He taught in the University's Department of Systematics and Ecology for many years before retiring last spring. The symposium which honored him was held in conjunction with the annual meeting of the Society for the Study of Amphibians and Reptiles and the Herpetologists' League. Symposium speakers were former students of Dr. Fitch.

Plummer's presentation to the group was entitled "Female Reproduction in an Arkansas Population of Rough Green Snakes (Opheodrip Aestivus)."

He recently published a study of the same species in the Journal of Herpetology. A member of the Herpetologists' League, Plummer has been appointed Index Editor of the League's quarterly journal, Herpetologica.

With Clay Sturgeon on string bass, David Wiggins on guitar and Jon Woodroof on banjo, the Time of Day members practice a verse of "Same Old Bluegrass Story." The group, under the supervision of Ken Qualls, assistant director of admissions, will perform for prospective Harding students in many states and in Canada.

Time of Day Adds New Member, Plans Fall Recruitment Tours

Clay Sturgeon, a junior from Phoenix, Ariz., has joined Harding's musical trio, "Time of Day."

Sturgeon transferred to Harding from Michigan Christian College, where he was a member of A Cappella and the "Autumn" trio and was a host during the spring variety show, "Celebration."

A high tenor, Sturgeon will sing lead parts and will play guitar and bass for the group. Some of his own compositions will become part of the repertoire.

Sturgeon is majoring in music education. "I'm not interested in performing as a profession," he stated. "I just want to teach."

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Sturgeon of Phoenix.

Returning Time of Day members are sophomore David Wiggins of Memphis, Tenn. and senior Jon Woodroof of Searcy.

Wiggins, an accounting major, plays guitar, bass, harmonica, tambourine, mandolin, drums and banjo.

Woodroof performed for several years with a family quartet. The public relations major plays guitar, bass, harmonica and tambourine.

Time of Day will perform mostly bluegrass and popular songs. The repertoire will include some old favorites, such as "Foggy Mountain Breakdown," "Rocky Top" and the snap-crackle-pop interlude, as well as some new sounds from contemporary performers like Dan Fogleberg and Eddie Rabbitt.

The September tour schedule included performances in Missouri, Indiana, Louisiana and Texas. October performances are as follows:

Oct. 25 Olney, Ill.
Oct. 26 Parkersburg, W.V.
Oct. 27 Villanova, Pa.
Oct. 28 Tabernacle, N.J.
Oct. 30 Boston, Mass.
Oct. 31 Beamsville, Ontario, Canada

"I want kids to enjoy education," smiled Tommy Bush, kindergarten director and principal of Westside Elementary in Cabot, Ark. "I want them to know that learning can be fun, exciting and rewarding."

"My goal is to have the best elementary school in the state," he added, "and I don't let the fear of failure stop me from trying."

A 1971 Harding alumnus, Bush has been involved in education for the past nine years: four as an elementary teacher in North Little Rock, two as a state educational consultant for a federal program headquartered at Ouachita Baptist University in Arkadelphia and the last three as principal at Cabot Middle and Westside Elementary Schools.

Bush's educational methods have drawn substantial state and local attention, including articles published this year by the Arkansas Gazette, Arkansas Democrat and Cabot Star-Herald. In 1974 Bush was featured in the North Little Rock Times and later in the Journal of Arkansas Education.

"My first professional goal was to be an elementary teacher on the fifth or sixth-grade level," recalled Bush, "but immediately I recognized individual differences in my students. The first year I tried to stay alive by being a strict disciplinarian."

"By the third year," he said, "I had opened up and was able to let the kids choose the areas they wanted to study."

Bush said that as a result of his "ability to individualize instruction and motivate students," he was offered a job in 1975 as an educational consultant specialist with the Arkansas Technical Assistance and Consultative Center at OBU. After working there for two years, federal funds for the job ran out, and Bush accepted a job at Cabot Middle School as principal in 1977. He has been in charge of the 13-acre Westside Elementary since its opening in 1978.

The campus itself indicates that Bush is serious about having the best elementary school in Arkansas. In addition to the usual swings, seesaws and monkeybars, there is a tire climber made of 54 tires which are vertically secured in rows nine tires wide by six high.

A three-quarter-mile jogging trail with sawdust bedding, slab lumber borders and three wooden-spring bridges was completed this year for elementary students' use. An outdoor amphitheater which will seat 75 is nearing completion. An outdoor, pavilion-style classroom is also under construction; it will include blackboard, desks and other usual classroom items.

According to Bush, parents are welcome to visit any of the classes whenever they wish, as long as they give advance notice of their visits. Parents are also invited to "Superstar" competitions, which include tug-of-war, relays and sprints.

"I like to see students running toward the finish line and the other students cheering them on, not caring who wins out that all finish," said Bush. "I am interested in developing the total child," he added.

Education is not his only interest, however. He is active in church work and owns a kayak and a 60-acre farm in Romance. For part of three summers he has been a team leader with Wilderness Experience Christian Camp in Buena Vista, Colo. The camp is similar to the Outward Bound program, but is taught from a Christian perspective.

Bush, 32, has been listed in the publication Outstanding Young Men of America. He is presently working toward the completion of a specialist degree in educational administration at the University of Arkansas and hopes to become involved in Christian education eventually.

[Editor's note: Bush was married to Martha Griffin, a pediatric resident at Arkansas Children's Hospital, in September.]

Howard Promotes New Constitution for Arkansas

Dr. Tom Howard was one of 100 delegates who drafted a proposed constitution for the state of Arkansas over a two-year period ending June 30.

Elected in November 1978 to represent District 49, Howard assisted

"Even if the document doesn't pass," Howard stated, "this has been a very good experience. One of my major motives for becoming a delegate was to get practical experience in political science that you can't get in a classroom. You can relate facts much better to your students if you've actually been part of the legislative process."

The document itself, according to Howard, includes provisions which would strengthen the people's rights and streamline the state government, eliminating defunct offices and committees. "We've been able to modernize the constitution," Howard stated. "The statutes in the 1874 constitution are outdated. It's pretty bad when you start amending the amendments to the amendments, and that's where we are now.

"There's no question that we've made a dramatic improvement, but the question is whether the people of Arkansas will accept some changes," he concluded. At the convention the proposed constitution was unanimously accepted; each delegate signed it and will support its ratification, which will be decided by the Nov. 4 election.

Howard will explain the new document's provisions to civic, educational and special interest groups throughout Arkansas.

Tom Howard adds his signature to the proposed new constitution which he and 99 other delegates drafted for the state of Arkansas during the Constitutional Convention.

in the research and debate aimed toward updating the fifth Arkansas constitution, which was adopted in 1874. Three previous attempts to revise the document have been unsuccessful.

During the Constitutional Convention, Howard served on the Finance and Taxation committee, which he selected from the eight subject matter committees because it would deal with property taxation. He also served on a temporary public relations committee.

Howard's daughters, Cindy, Christy and Beth, also participated in the convention, serving as pages.

Record-Breaking Victory Gained on Parents' Night

Harding opened the 1980 football season with a 19-7 victory over Lane College before a partisan Parents' Night crowd in Searcy Sept. 13.

Utilizing a tenacious defense which caused nine turnovers, the youthful Bison team used a 16-point second half effort to earn the victory.

Sophomore safetyman Ron Chase of Union Grove, Wis. intercepted three passes as the Bisons set a single game record with seven interceptions. The three thefts by Chase earned him a spot in the Bison history books as he tied the school's single game interception record set by Robert Akins in 1976.

The defensive unit also stopped the visiting Dragons with only 21 yards of rushing offense. The performance broke the old record of 30 yards set in 1976 against Northwest Oklahoma.

Harding completed nine of 22 passing attempts for 84 yards as coach John Prock used two quarterbacks, senior Scott Ragsdale of Conyers, Ga. and sophomore Kyle Blickenstaff of Boise, Idaho, to direct the win.

Leading the Bison running game were sophomore fullback Pat Brown of Greenville, Texas and junior tailback Lafe Caton of Inola, Okla.

Freshman Jay Graham of Dallas, Texas, playing in his first collegiate game, kicked two field goals of 37 and 32 yards and added a point after the Bisons' final touchdown.

Defensively, linebackers Kerry Thompson of Murray, Ky. and Ron Dicken of Columbiana, Ohio had standout games. Thompson had 10 tackles, one unassisted, and Dicken was credited with nine tackles, four of which were unassisted.

Sports Personnel Attend Workshop

Harding University President Clifton L. Ganus and members of the athletic department participated in an NAIA District 17 Workshop at DeGray State Park in Arkadelphia Aug. 28-29.

The area-wide meeting was organized and moderated by Harding Athletic Director Harry Olree, who serves as chairman of District 17 (Arkansas).

Ganus participated in a Presidents' panel with executives from the area member schools.

Also attending and participating in the workshop were basketball coaches Jess Bucy and Wilt Martin, track coach Ted Lloyd, tennis coach David Elliott, golf coach Phil Watkins and sports information director Stan Green.

Former Kegler Ranks 3rd In International Competition

In international competition, Harding All-American bowler Gary Beck placed third in the Bowling Landerkramps in Kiel, Germany June 4-11.

A member of the 1975 graduating class, Beck was competing as a member of a six-man United States team against teams from Finland, West Germany and Sweden.

In individual action, Beck recorded a total pinfall of 3,074 pins over 15 tournament games for a 203.7 average. He placed behind Rudi Janka of West Germany and teammate Gary Bower of the U.S.

The 27-year-old school teacher posted the tournament's high series of 719 on games of 221-234-264. Actual play was split over a two-day period.

Teamwise, the U.S. team placed first, followed by West Germany, Sweden and Finland.

"I really felt good about the way I bowled," Beck said, "because I actually had not had as much opportunity for practice in the days just before we left."

Beck said that in addition to the Landerkramps, the U.S. team rolled exhibition matches against teams in Berlin and Brummerhaven, winning both events.

"We really didn't have a chance to do much sightseeing, but we did work in a visit to the Berlin Wall and Checkpoint Charlie, two locations that I really wanted to see."

In addition, travel stops included Hamburg and the 1972 Olympic Village in Munich.

With Beck on the victorious U.S. team were Bower of Pa., Brad Stout of Pa., Rick Supanich of Ill., Frank Gadaletto of Mich. and Terry Kulibert of Wis. All are veterans of international competition.

Beck is a science teacher at Selvidge Junior High in Ballwin, Mo. He has been elected president of the Rockwood Community Teachers Association for 1980-81 and is the first non-tenured teacher ever elected to the position.

Cheerleaders Prepared to Spread 'Bison Fever'

An enthusiastic and vivacious group of cheerleaders will lead the yells for the Bison fans this year, and faculty sponsor Barbara Barnes can attest to that fact.

Representing Harding this year will be juniors Stacy Adkins (captain) of Memphis, Tenn.; Jani Orr of Little Rock, Ark. and Charlotte Yingling of Searcy; sophomores Ellen Pilkenton (co-captain) of Sebring, Fla.; Sue Ellen Rhoten of Fort Worth, Texas; Lindi Williams of West Monroe, La. and Bobbi Friend of Nashville, Tenn. and freshmen Stacy Green of Searcy and Lisa Wilson of Sherwood, Ark.

This year, for the first time, the cheerleaders attended a summer workshop-seminar at Southern Methodist University. A full week of practice, classroom work and participation was involved. The group's efforts were rewarded with a number of blue ribbons and spirit sticks, symbolic of exceptional achievement.

"Perhaps the most important aspect of the trip was the opportunity for the girls to be together," Mrs. Barnes said. "By working together in such a concentrated effort, they really got to know each other in a way that wouldn't have been possible otherwise."

Her sentiments were echoed by Lindi Williams, who said, "Working together 10-12 hours a day really brought us together as a squad. It taught us to work together as a unit and to do what is best for the group."

Stacy Green, who was selected as cheerleader during early orientation, along with Lisa Wilson, said, "It was a great opportunity for me, coming in as a freshman. The workshop threw us all together and gave me the chance to meet and get to know the other girls."

Mrs. Barnes, who is in her second year as the cheerleader sponsor, summed it all up by saying, "This year's squad is an exceptional group of girls. They've worked hard and are ready for a great year in 1980-81."
